SPACE CENTRE AUSTRALIA OPENS NEW CORPORATE OFFICE IN WASHINGTON DC, USA

Space Centre Australia is excited to officially launch its new USA based corporate office in Washington D.C. The opening is a demonstration of our commitment to developing the Australian Space Industry Internationally. This opening supports our current Americas based clients and partners and will present new opportunities for ongoing business development within the international space industry and business collaboration within the wider space ecosystem. The opening will also present opportunities for international supply chain development and workforce development opportunities to service Space Centre Australia and the wider Space Industry.

CEO of Space Centre Australia James Palmer said:

“We are excited to be finally present in the USA offering our services to our US based customers and partners. We have several collaboration agreements and new business growth projects ranging between Alaska to Florida in operation and by opening our USA based office we will be positioned to successfully deliver to and work with our industry colleagues. Further, this new office location coupled with our existing office in the United Kingdom and our Headquarters in Australia truly makes us a global company.”

Space Centre Australia is dedicated to developing the Space Industry here in Australia and overseas. Our country has a lot to offer the international community in the advancement of the Space Ecosystem, Manufacturing, Quantum Computing, Space Exploration & Industry Workforce Development.
